

traceability

I wish we had good
open source
traceability tools

traceability comes from safety critical
fields

it's a way to link
different pieces
together.

you already have:

docs, code, and tests

what if...

you could check all
your docs match your
code?

you could check all
your code has tests?

you could check all
your tests match your
docs?

This is the Traceability Matrix

it shows all the
connections and gaps

this metadata gives you superpowers

what if...

you could
"jump to docs"
from your code?

when you make a PR, a
tool shows you all
the docs that might
need to be updated?

it's usually all in
the same repo anyway

we're just missing
metadata and tooling